THE TRUTH PATE

A few weeks ago a train over one of the railroads running West ran over a cow just beyond the Grand Trunk Junction. The matter was reported at headquarters, but the owner of the mangled bovine was not heard of until Tuesday last, when he antered the President's office and remark-

"I guess we'd better settle up now for that cow ? " "Ah, you owned the cow killed by one o our trains, did you?"

"1 expect I did." "And what did you value her at?"

The man scratched his head, hitched around on his chair, and finally replied : "Well, I dunno. My brother in law said I had the company tighter'n blazes, and he told me to say she was a newmilch cow, and lay damages at seventy dol-

"But my wife said that I'd better say that the cow was not worth over fifty dol-

"Yes. Well, how was it?" "That's where the stick comes in, you see. I want all she was worth, and yet I don't want to swindle anybody. Fact is, she was an old cow, dry as a bone, and worth about fifteen dollars for boardinghouse beef. Yet, she was took away kinder sudden, and it made a bad muss around the place, and I reckened you might add a light tle extra." "Let us say twenty-five dollars."

"That's plenty. I 'spose I might have had a fifty just as well as not, but I didn't want to lie about it." "No; never tell a lie."

"Oh, I wouldn't have lied, 'cause I know you sent a man out there to git all the facts in the case," replied the man as he received an order on the Treasurer for his check .-Detroit Free Press.

A GLASS EYE.

There was an old Swede, who had an eye operated on by Dr. Holmes. The sight was gone, and the doctor recommended the man to get a glass one, adding: "It will look just as well as the other." The Swede thought the doctor meant it would "see" just as well, and was tickled. When the socket of the lost member healed up he came around, and after a few trials got a splendid fit. He looked in the mirror, and turned about and admired it, and was mightily pleased. "That's good," said he, "just as well as the other. How much?"

It was $15, but he didn't mind the price. He paid, and after another examination before the glass started for the door. Just there he struck another mirror and an idea. Standing on the door mat he gazed into the mirror. Then he put one hand over the artificial eye. Chuckling over the result, he next put a hand over the good eye. With a howl of rage he came running up through the stere and said:

Why, I can't see out of this eye a bit.' The matter was explained to him, and he then detailed the doctor's conversation with his on that point. It was no good the trade was off, and the old man went out as mad as a hornet, saying as he slammed the

A NEAT SWINDLE.

The Terre Hante (Ind.) Gazette tells of a shrewd swindle perpetrated on a Parke county gudgeon named Charles Adams, while coming on a train from St. Louis to Terre Hante. He met a man who was quite talkative, and who learned from Adams that he had a brother who had gone to Kansas many years before. The stranger inquired of Adams his name and home, and then said : " Well, now, that's queer. That is right singular, to be sure. Why, I have your brother's corpse with me in the express car on the train. He died a few days ago in Kansas, and I am taking his proper spirit of appreciation. - New Haven remains back to his old home in Parke Register. county. He was a good merchant, and he left all his property to his brother. And if a Western town made a botch of it, and you are the man you have dropped into a right rich thing. There in my pocket opening his coat and showing an envelope) are ten thou and dollars in United States bond. He also left ten thousand in goods." The man from Parke county was inwardly pleased, and when they arrived at Terre Haute, loaned his companion, who happened to be short, all the money he had. It was only $18, but if it had been $1,800 it would have been all the same.
